

dr Kristof Bal studied chemistry at the University of Antwerp. He started his Ph.D. in our group in 2014, on methods extending the time scale of atomic scale simulations, and defended his Ph.D. in 2018. He is currently a postdoc researcher working on the development of advanced methodologies for atomic scale simulations of plasma-surface interactions.